Modeling of the experimental part

3.1 Goal of the experiments

We want to see if our modified PID controller keeps the water level close to the set point and moves the valve less than a normal PID, when the inflow and outflow are unknown. We also want to know what each extra part of the controller does.